

① Management Information System & Management Information System is a system which consist of hardware and software and they are working as a backbone of organisation. Management information system is responsible for gathering the data processing and analysing the information and helps to take a final decision.